

JAMIE ROBERTS CLASS OF 1999

Determined, focused, and laugh-out-loud funny, Jamie Roberts possesses a persona that warms up the crowd and brings down the house. Jamie's comedic timing and ability to turn any situation humorous has made him into one of the most sought after hosts in the New York City area. From film to the stage, Jamie is a comic's comic – you never know what he may say or do next.

Jamie made his bones on the NY comedy scene as the executive producer and weekly host of the longest-running Sunday show in NYC called Sunday Night Live. The show created a platform where up and coming comedians could perform alongside some of the greats such as Mike Epps, George Wallace, David Spade, Marlon Wayans and a number of others who graced the Sunday Night Live stage.

Jamie has been featured on MTV, Tidal, Sirius XM Radio, The Griot, The Root, 770 WABC Radio (NYC), NBC's Law & Order, Power: Ghost II, Godfather of Harlem, CBS News, Fox 5 News, Channel 7 ABC's (NYC) Eyewitness, Channel 6 ABC News (Philadelphia) commercials. He was also a cast member on FYI's A Question of Love, with his then girlfriend Nicky Sunshine and starred on the show for 10 episodes.

Who would have thought this Long Island native would have what it takes to make it in the big city? Jamie is currently married to his comedy sweetheart Nicky Sunshine and they are now touring with their brand "Married and Funny." He is also the founder of 108 Soul, New York's new R&B and Classic Hip-hop station, co-owner of Comedy In Harlem, NYC's only Black owned comedy club and executive director of Comedy With A Purpose. A business in which he uses comedy to address some serious social matters. With his clean cut good looks, insatiable charm, and cutting edge comedy, Jamie Roberts is the one to watch in the upcoming year.

EBONIE VINCENT, DMP CLASS OF 2009

Dr. Ebonie Vincent, DPM is a Board Certified and highly trained foot and ankle surgeon. Based in Orange County, California, Dr. Vincent has extensive experience in the latest treatments for foot and ankle conditions and specializes in minimally invasive surgical techniques, corrective and reconstructive foot and ankle surgery, diabetic limb salvage, pediatric foot condition and sports medicine.

Dr. Vincent is a native of Temecula, California and completed her undergraduate education at Hampton University. She went on to obtain a Master's degree in Biomedical Science at Philadelphia College of Osteopathic Medicine and completed her Doctor of Podiatric medicine degree at Des Moines University.. She went on to complete a 3-year residency program at Inspira Health network in Vineland, New Jersey. While in residency, she completed numerous rotations in specialties including emergency medicine, infectious disease, radiology, internal medicine, general surgery and vascular surgery. Dr. Vincent also trained under top orthopedic and podiatric physicians in advanced treatments for children and adults with upper and lower limb length discrepancies, limb deformities, non-unions, bone defects, bone infections, joint contractures, foot deformities and short stature at The Rubin Institute for Advanced Orthopedics and International Center for Limb Lengthening in Baltimore, Maryland.

Dr. Vincent is the co-author of several research articles and has been published in the Journal of Orthopedic and Sports Physical Therapy (JOSPT). She has won also won numerous research awards.

Dr. Vincent is currently serving the community of Orange County, California and is also one of the stars on the hit TLC series "My Feet Are Killing Me" where she treats foot pathologies from common to rare conditions. She strives to continue to make an impact in her community and serve as a positive role model for all.